OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

Janesville Daily Gazette.

VOLUME 8.

JANEVILLE, WIS., TUESDAY, NOV. 22, 1864.

NUMBER 227.

The Weekly Gazette is now the largest paper printed in the State, and having the matter published in the Daily to select and challenge complete with any newspaper in Wisconsin. In correct political doctrine, in reliable market reports, in giving the latest news from all quarters, in literary merit and in local information relating to the city and county, it shall spare no pains to make the Weekly Gazette worthy of public patronage and support.

State News.

The Appleton Crescent tells how Mr. and Mrs. John Walters of the town of Greenville, celebrated their "golden wedding" on the 23d ult. Quite a large circle of friends and relatives participated in the festivities of the occasion; and the happy couple aged respectively 78 and 80, led off in the first dance. May they long live to bless the world around.—The Fond du Lac Reporter says the examination of the drafted men will be completed in the 4th District next Wednesday. On the 1st of December the supplemental draft will probably commence. Charles H. Benton, late U. S. M. in the 1st Wis. Regt, has purchased one-third interest in the Commercial, of Fond du Lac.

The Ripon Commonwealth notes the passage of an immense flock of wild geese, 400 in number it thinks; the robbing of the pocket of Mr. Greenway, American Express agent, while he slept; and rejoices over the sleighing.—A soldier, furloughed from Washington hospitals to come home and vote, gives high praise in the Elkhorn Independent, to the officers of the Pittsburg and Fort Wayne railroad at Pittsburg, for furnishing a special train, and to conductor Sprout and engineers Reese and Feathers for rapidly running it, so as to enable some 100 Wisconsin soldiers to reach Chicago in time to get home and vote.—The Grant County Herald records the appeal for aid to the new hospital at Prairie du Chien, and makes the timely suggestion to farmers that they aid the destitute families of soldiers by supplies of wood, beef, pork and other necessities.—The Herald tells of a man who sold the product of forty refuse tobacco plants for $150.

The Watervliet Democrat says a Thanks, giving dinner is to be given at the Common Council rooms for the benefit of the families of soldiers needing assistance.—The Citizen notes the death of Mr. Scott, one of the oldest and most respected citizens of Beaver Dam, and the drowning of a boy 12 years old named Edward Phelps, by breaking through the ice while skating. His body was not recovered for half an hour and life was extinct.—A number of citizens of Watervliet advertise the desecration of the draft in that town, and pledge themselves that unless they report they shall never be allowed to reside in the town. The Grant County Fitness says the Good Templars at Platteville are doing a valuable reformatory work.—The Northwestern says houses to rent are very scarce and in demand in Oshkosh; that navigation is about closed; that the lumbermen are preparing for the winter campaign, abundant supplies and large crews of men going into the woods; and notes, as highly patriotic, that Edward Shoen, a resident of Oshkosh, 80 years of age, being out in the country, walked in a distance of twelve miles, to vote for Lincoln at the late election.—The Times has an enthusiastic account of a steamer built in that village for the Chippewa river trade, named the Hell Prindle. It is 103 feet long, 121 wide, carries 30 tons, and will run light in ten inches of water.—The Kenosha Telegraph says a friend requests us to state through the columns of your paper, that of the whole number of votes given for McClellan in the city of Kenosha, on'y nine were cast by American born citizens. If this be a fact, or if it approximate to a fact, there can be no harm in making it public.

State Teacher's Association.
 EDITORS GAZETTE:—The annual meeting of the State Teacher's Association of Wisconsin, for this year, was held in the Academy at Milton, opening Tuesday evening, November 15th, and closing Thursday afternoon following. The regular time for this meeting was in July last, but it was postponed on account of the absence of its officers from the State in the hundred day service. The sessions were largely attended by teachers, friends of education and citizens of Milton. There were in attendance one hundred and seventy-five teachers, of whom one hundred and twenty-five were enrolled. It was the general expression that the exercises were interesting and profitable—more so than was expected.

The annual address was presented by the President, Prof. Allen, of Madison, on the character of the pupil as formed in our schools. Hon. J. L. Pickard, formerly our State Superintendent, now in charge of the schools of Chicago, made a farewell address to the teachers of our State. Both addresses contained many suggestive remarks, and were well received. Other papers were read by Prof. B. F. Seaman, of Milwaukee, on the Teacher, the Common School and the State; by Rev. D. E. Maxson, of Milton, on Political Education in our Schools; by Rev. A. D. Hendrickson, of Waukesha, on The Examination of Teachers; by Prof. L. Searling, of Milton, and Prof. E. F. Hobart of Baraboo, on Teaching History in our Schools; and by Prof. N. C. Twining, of Milton, on A Course of Study for the Common School. The reading of these papers was followed by general discussion on the topics which they presented. In it participated a goodly number of teachers and friends of education; among whom were Hon. J. G. M. Myron, our State Superintendent, Prof. A. J. Cheney, Secretary of the association and Superintendent of Walworth Co. Prof. S. K. Purdy, Superintendent of Jefferson Co., Prof. A. Whitford and H. A. Richards, Superintendent of Rock Co., R. Graham, Superintendent of Kenosha Co., Rev. J. B. Pratt and Prof. W. W. Colby, of Madison, Prof. S. H. Peabody, of Racine, A. T. North, of Port Kankakee, Prof. J. B. Badger, of Whitewater, and Rev. W. C. Whitford, of Milton. The remarks upon the teaching of History and Political Science in our Schools occupied much of the time, and elicited great interest. Beside those above mentioned, other prominent teachers in the State take part in the business transactions; and of these were Prof. J. C. Rickford, of Madison, Prof. S. T. Lockwood, of Janesville, Prof. W. H. Peck, of Stoughton, Prof. H. Torry, of Spring Green, H. S. Keene, of Muskego, Miss S. E. Joiner, of Mazomanie, Miss E. Sanders, of Milton, and Miss P. S. Allen, of Madison. Prof. Hubelins, with twenty-two female teachers from the public schools of Janesville, was detained by an accident on the Railroad, and did not reach Milton until a late hour of the last session. Many regrets were expressed that they could not be present and participate in the exercises of the previous sessions. Resolutions were passed reaffirming the loyalty of the teachers of the Association; expressing great satisfaction at the results of the late elections; recommending the study of History and Political Science in our schools; requesting the citizens of our State to furnish provisions for the education of the destitute children of our soldiers who have died, or been permanently disabled in the present war; and thanking the citizens of Milton for their hospitality, and the railroads for their reduction of fare.

The officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Rev. W. C. Whitford, of Milton, President; Prof. O. M. Baker, of Milwaukee, Vice President; Prof. J. K. Purdy, of Fort Atkinson, Secretary. It is expected that the next meeting will be held at the usual time, in July next, and probably at Whitewater. —W.

GENERAL SHERMAN'S MOVEMENT.—A letter from a Chicago surgeon in General Sherman's army, written just prior to the commencement of the movement from Atlanta, contains the following: "What length of time the contemplated march will occupy I can only conjecture; but suppose probably until about the first of January next. I do not think Sherman's army will have hard fighting unless they chance to meet some of Lee's forces. Thomas, with all the strong fortifications northward supplied with artillery, will be able to hold all places the government will care to occupy. If Sherman strikes a water base he would seem that all that he can do will be to annoy and fight it about the country. If he chooses to cut his own friends he will have no cause to complain of reason to hinder him. It seems now we are not to hold any interior point between Chattanooga and the Gulf, as all railways, forgeries, and other public works will be destroyed before this campaign shall end and much of the country effectively eaten up and desolated. "This army is in excellent health and spirits; all delighted with the idea of moving beyond the limit of cold weather; appetites stimulated even now in anticipation of some day tasting an oyster. We expect wet weather and muddy roads, but the endurance of the men is beyond comparison, the weekly and inefficient ones having dropped from the ranks in the long marches of the past year."

HOW APPOINTMENTS ARE SOMETIMES MADE.—Gen. Scott in his autobiography furnishes a bit of gossip relating to appointments by the President. In February, 1828, Maj. Gen. Brown died; a new major General-in-chief was to be appointed. Scott was the senior. But Mrs. Mason, of Annapolis Island, Georgetown, desired the appointment of Gen. Macomb, because he had promised to place her son-in-law, Lieut. Cooper, then at Fort Mifflin, upon his staff. Mrs. Mason induced Mrs. Rush to prevail upon Mr. Rush, then Secretary of State, to persuade Mr. Adams, the President, to appoint Macomb, and this intrigue was successful. The Lieutenant Cooper, who thus got his staff appointment, in order that Mrs. Mason might be near her daughter, his wife, is now the rebel adjutant general.

GEN. CANBY.—It is stated that General Canby's wound is so serious that he will not be able to take the saddle for at least six months.

DIED.

In this city, on the evening of the 21st ult., LILLIE, aged 4 years and 8 months; on the morning of the 22d ult., LILLIE, aged 2 years and 8 months, both children of J. M. and Mary E. Buchanan.

The funeral of the little one will take place from the house of their father on Jackson street, just North of Milwaukee, at 2 o'clock p. m., tomorrow.

In the short space of six weeks Mr. B. has lost his wife and three children. Truly an affliction.

Our new and spacious apartments, in point of eligibility, capacity, and convenience and facilities for ventilation and light, are all that could be desired. In fact, they are not excelled by any used for this purpose in the United States. Their admirable construction admits of a classification which secures the most efficient instruction in all the departments.

The business Department of the College has been organized upon a basis equal, and in many respects superior, to anything of the kind in the country, and will be thoroughly administered. The point aimed at in this department is not to present a novel exhibition, which shall have the outward seeming of business, but to give rise to such transactions, and in such manner and order, as will produce the best and most approved forms of business record, and to illustrate such characteristics of trade as are necessary to a thorough business training. In short, it is determined to make this the model and leading college, worthy alike of the commercial city in which it is situated, and of the great enterprise of which it forms a part.

THE IMPROVED COURSE OF INSTRUCTION.

At a Convention of the Resident Principals and Proprietors of the International Chain, held in New York during two weeks of July last, a course of instruction, embracing both theory and practice, and a system of intercommunication carried out between the students of the respective colleges, was adopted, and is put in operation in this College.

This course, embodying the experience of the several teachers of the International Chain, whose attention has been given to this subject for the past many years, can but meet the unqualified approval of business men and educators. The branches taught in this institution comprise a most thorough body of COMMERCIAL EDUCATION, embracing Book-Keeping, Commercial Correspondence, Commercial Calculation, Telegraphing, &c.

The course of practice is more rational and thorough than ever before devised, and has direct reference to supplying the minute and essential instruction which has heretofore been considered as pertaining solely to the

COUNTING ROOM.

The system employed is entirely ORIGINAL with these Colleges, and marks an era in commercial education. Through the agency of separate institutions, located in different parts of the United States and Canada, we are enabled not only to illustrate the primal facts of Political Economy, commencing with the producer and passing through the intermediate agencies to the consumer,—but also to give a distinct idea of Domestic and Foreign Exchange, and to apply the lessons with such pertinacity and effect that the dullest scholar can but read and profit thereby. The advantages which we possess in this regard over single schools, however well conducted in other respects, will be at once apparent. In the mere matter of growing out of the intercommunication between the Colleges, and which is the more natural and business-like in that it is the result of business, a future is presented which must have weight with those who think to any purpose.

Aside from this, and greatly beyond it in effect and importance, are the complicated transactions growing out of the

Shipment of Merchandise,

from one city to another, necessitating all the essential movements and entries connected therewith, as practiced in actual business, and affording invaluable facilities for illustrating and enforcing the details of

in all its bearings. It would astonish one who has not given much thought to the matter, to witness the operations of this extemporised business community, and to see how perfectly the details of an extended trade can be put in practice. Through the agency of a CONNECTED CHAIN OF INSTITUTIONS, there is no important item of practice occurring in the widest range of business, that cannot be correctly and minutely shown up. Each College is furnished with suitable apartments, furniture, and other accessories for representing the actual operations of business in all its various channels. Among the various "Houses" thoroughly appointed and engaged in practice, are:

BANKS, Public and Private; MERCANTILE HOUSE, Wholesale and Retail; including Dry Goods, Groceries, Produce, &c;

BANKING AND EXCHANGE; COMMISSION HOUSE; TRANSPORTATION OFFICES;

INSURANCE OFFICES; POST OFFICES; &c., &c., &c.

Each of these has its particular work in the grand design, and all are arranged with a view to harmony and efficiency in carrying out the true and practical idea of BUSINESS. To the aspiring and enterprising young men, like those who, by their appreciation of the superior facilities of this school, have rendered its enlargement imperative, a cordial invitation is extended to call and examine the facilities to the various departments. The circular for 1864, "The College Monthly and Supplement," containing full particulars as to the College, can be obtained by calling at the room, or addressing us by mail as follows:

BRYANT, STRATTON & SPENCER,
Milwaukee, Wis.

Milwaukee Commercial College.

The purpose which has led to the establishment of these Colleges has been to place in the hands of aspiring young men the most ready and effectual means of attaining to positions of honor and emolument; in short, to impart in the most thorough manner, and in the shortest time possible, that kind and degree of training comprised in a BUSINESS EDUCATION.

The tedious years of apprenticeship, which under the old system were considered the only stepping-stone to remunerative positions, are epitomized into a few months of pleasant study, where the mind is trained not only to appreciate the minor details of business but the grander principles which underlie the economy of life, and without which no business education can be considered complete.

At present there are twenty-one colleges connected with this institution. The attendance is not less than four thousand students, with an average of one hundred principals and professors.

Bryant, Stratton & Spencer's Milwaukee College possesses remarkable facilities for those wishing to obtain a practical commercial education. Each student is admitted upon his own recognition as a gentleman; is treated as such, and is expected to consider himself, in all respects, responsible for his own acts. Having purchased a scholarship, which secures to him the necessary instruction to make him a thorough accountant, he is permitted to elect his time and place of attendance within the prescribed jurisdiction of the colleges; but it is expected of all students that they will observe all possible diligence and regularity in their attendance. The general discipline, while it does not descend to those minute and specific requirements which seem necessary in the conduct of schools more primary in their character, is, nevertheless, sufficiently strict and exacting to place the responsibility of the student's progress upon himself. A record of attendance is kept in connection with the recitations and promptness, as far as may be, is required. The progress of each student in his course is regulated by such frequent and thorough examinations as shall be competent to satisfy the teachers in charge, and no student is permitted to pass from one division of his course to another without giving evidence of suitable proficiency. The sets are short, embracing a large variety of entry, and bringing into requisition all the forms of business paper, such as notes, drafts, checks, certificates of deposit, bills of exchange, statements, &c.

After passing through the initiatory course, and giving satisfactory evidence of a thorough knowledge of the principle and practice of business, the student is advanced to the COUNTING ROOM, where his proficiency is put to the most severe practical test. The "Counting Room" is a miniature business world, in which are represented all departments of economy, and affording to the student a novel and interesting glimpse of the outer world for which he is preparing. Here he sees, in actual and harmonious operation, the different branches of trade and commerce which unite countries, states, communities and individuals in the closest bonds of mutual interest, and make up that grand system of economy which men call business.

But he is no indolent or idle spectator. Having pursued his studies thus far with special reference to the exigencies of a business life, he is now to engage in pursuits which will test the value of his instruction. He is established in business, —an order on the Bank by the Superintendent puts the student in funds wherewith to commence business; and from his nimble pen go forth the various invoices of goods to the "MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE," thence to the general mart of trade, the commission houses, &c., and defraying the necessary expenses of getting them in store. At every place in the area of trade and business, may be seen bankers, merchants, freight agents, commission dealers, &c., merchandising, trafficking, buying, selling, &c., the system of box and bundle marking, the styles and denominations of weight and measurement, and the customs which prevail in first class houses.

Each student is employed in some particular department, representing some important branch of business, and in keeping the accounts consequent thereon, after the most approved forms. He keeps a regular bank account, making regular daily deposits and drawing checks as occasion may require. In the course of business he receives other people's notes, and issues his own, all of which pass regularly through the bank, either as discounts or collections, requiring constant vigilance on his part, and a thorough understanding of business customs in this direction. In the constant repetition of buying and selling, he learns to watch carefully all the phases of the market, and to study the theory of gains from the practical lessons occurring under his immediate observation and direction. He is also thoroughly drilled in original entries of all kinds, and learns to rely upon himself.

Again he is a financier, and learns to apply the theoretical lessons of his course in "BANKING." The bank is fitted up with all the modern conveniences, and furnished with a complete set of books and blank forms, together with its own "greenbacks" and plenty of "tin,"—the only specie paying bank we know of just now, its checks, stamps and its books, in which are kept actual transactions with each student, sufficient for the united business of all the varied "houses" in operation. The business at the bank is at once the most natural and effective, being the result almost entirely of the other departments, and consisting of such actual transactions as require all the forms and manipulations common to banks of circulation and deposit. Its importance in perfecting the operations in the business department is not less than that of other similar institutions in the great business world; and the finishing touches which its multifarious duties give to the student are well calculated to impart a degree of facility and confidence in actual business operations such as no more theoretical training could accomplish.

Thus, the student at once gains a complete practical knowledge of his studies and becomes a perfect master in each branch, in much less time than those colleges where only a theoretical knowledge is taught.

THE WRITING DEPARTMENT

Is conducted by the resident Principal, Mr. R. C. Spencer, in person, who adheres strictly to the Spencerian system of which his father, the late P. R. Spencer, was the author. The world will ever be indebted to the indefatigable author of this beautiful system of writing, the late P. R. Spencer, for the last benefit it has and will confer upon the thousands who adopt it as a medium for the transmission of their thoughts for the true purpose for which it was invented—fastening upon paper the transactions of the Commercial world, and all the various details in a business life. All the avenues of trade—the channels of commerce—the activity of business would be at an end, were this one single art taken from us. How important then, that the medium we employ for this purpose be as perfect as the skill of man can make it.

To the young man who is toiling upward to a position where he can look back and bid grim poverty defiance, this system of penmanship offers great advantages. If he be poor, let him master this great art and convert his knowledge into gold! Many a young man has been started upon the broad road to prosperity by means of this system, combined with a fair knowledge of accounts. The young man who begins life without a good business hand at his command (no matter what his calling or profession he may pursue) stands a sorry chance beside his more favored competitor, who has a thorough knowledge of this art in his head, and its practical utility at his finger ends.

It is our intention to spare no pains to make the

every way worthy to belong to the "Chain" that stretches through nearly one-half the States of the Union already, and that it shall be seconded by none other.

Again, the Principal of this College is confident of having developed a system of doing things which cannot fail to commend itself to every intelligent business man in the country. The process here adopted and carried on is not a sublime confusion wherein "chaos and old night" reign supreme, but it is one of order, of system, with beginning and ending, so that when a student shall have passed through the bank and the various houses, having compiled his sets of accounts from the current affairs, he will possess knowledge and information reducible at once to practice.

Young men little think of their splendid opportunities. Man too often is blind, at the moment, to his best interests. A fortune is within his grasp, and he knows it not. Events are pregnant with mighty gifts, but he is unaware of the ready hands to bestow.

Young men too, are often timid, and seize not upon the favorable moment. They lack decision and confidence, or, may be, boldness to embrace the occasion. They behold, await, hesitate, absolutely fear, perhaps are cowardly.

Is not, O young man, the world, with all its glowing and wonderful events yours? Go forth, then, as into your own father's heritage. Your only patrimony is the accession, of which make appropriate use. Fear not. Fortis fortuna juvat. Man may accomplish chiefly what he undertakes. Aim high, and your efforts will assuredly bring down blessings in some form. A young man, when hesitating about a commercial education, while he feels the need of it, should think of the "protean commerce" of the day, inviting tens of thousands of the young men of the country. "But," says one, "so many are qualifying, there will be no opportunity for me." Thousands of young men are victims from the same conclusion which has its origin partly in cowardice and partly in selfishness. Vain and foolish conclusions! It is said that Uncle Sam has a farm for all; so has Commerce a counting-room and business for all who dare qualify. Every generation has its day. The helm of commerce must be directed by some one. Who will do it? The age is full of business hum. The times are fruitful of vast fortunes, and wealth lingers in unstable hands, tremblingly outstretched to the rising youth of the country. Who will attend the Commercial College? Who will go forth, participate in the activities of business and reap of the world's opulence?

ROBERT C. SPENCER,
Resident Principal.

MR. BRECHER ON THE REBEL ARMYING OF SLAVES.—We take the following from the report of Henry Ward Beecher's last Sunday evening discourse:

"But we are asked, what if the slaves shall be armed against us in this terrible war? To arm the slaves is to destroy slavery, and that is to destroy the fatal element in Southern society—their aristocracy; and with the destruction of this element we destroy the cause of the rebellion. Let us pray that they may arm their slaves. But it can scarcely be. The very proposition is a death symptom. It is present weakness. Many a desperate sickness might be cured, if the patient had constancy enough to bear up under it and withstand the medicine he takes; and there is not enough stamina in the South to withstand four hundred thousand black soldiers in their midst."

The Milwaukee Sentinel is sanguine that Pains will be elected from that district.

Is conducted by the resident Principal, Mr. R. C. Spencer, in person, who adheres strictly to the Spencerian system of which his father, the late P. R. Spencer, was the author. The world will ever be indebted to the indefatigable author of this beautiful system of writing, the late P. R. Spencer, for the last benefit it has and will confer upon the thousands who adopt it as a medium for the transmission of their thoughts or for the true purpose for which it was invented—fastening upon paper the transactions of the Commercial world, and all the various details in a business life. All the avenues of trade—the channels of commerce—the activity of business would be at an end, were this one single art taken from us. How important then, that the medium we employ for this purpose be as perfect as the skill of man can make it.
To the young man who is toiling upward to a position where he can look back and bid grim poverty defiance, this system of penmanship offers great advantages. If he be poor, let him master this great art and convert his knowledge into gold! Many a young man has been started upon the broad road to prosperity by means of this system, combined with a fair knowledge of accounts. The young man who begins life without a good business hand at his command (no matter what his calling or profession he may pursue) stands a sorry chance beside his more favored competitor, who has a thorough knowledge of this art in his head, and its practical utility at his finger ends.
It is our intention to spare no pains to make the
every way worthy to belong to the "Chain" that stretches through nearly one-half the States of the Union already, and that it shall be seconded by none other.
Again, the Principal of this College is confident of having developed a system of doing things which cannot fail to commend itself to every intelligent business man in the country. The process here adopted and carried on is not a sublime confusion wherein "chaos and old night" reign supreme, but it is one of order, of system, with beginning and ending, so that when a student shall have passed through the bank and the various houses, having compiled his sets of accounts from the current affairs, he will possess knowledge and information reducible at once to practice.
Young men little think of their splendid opportunities. Man too often is blind, at the moment, to his best interests. A fortune is within his grasp, and he knows it not. Events are pregnant with mighty gifts, but he is unaware of the ready hands to bestow.
Young men too, are often timid, and seize not upon the favorable moment. They lack decision and confidence, or, may be, boldness to embrace the occasion. They behold, await, hesitate, absolutely fear, perhaps are cowardly.
Is not, O young man, the world, with all its glowing and wonderful events yours? Go forth, then, as into your own father's heritage. Your only patrimony is the occasion, of which make appropriate use. Fear not. Fortis fortuna juvat. Man may accomplish chiefly what he undertakes. Aim high, and your efforts will assuredly bring down blessings in some form. A young man, when hesitating about a commercial education, while he feels the need of it, should think of the "protean commerce" of the day, inviting tens of thousands of the young men of the country; "But," says one, "so many are qualifying, there will be no opportunity for me." Thousands of young men are victims from the same conclusion which has its origin partly in cowardice and partly in selfishness. Vain and foolish conclusions! It is said that Uncle Sam has a farm for all; so has Commerce a counting-room and business for all who dare qualify. Every generation has its day. The helm of commerce must be directed by some one. Who will do it? The age is full of business hum. The times are fruitful of vast fortunes, and wealth lingers in unstable hands, tremblingly outstretched to the rising youth of the country. Who will attend the Commercial College? Who will go forth, participate in the activities of business and reap of the world's opulence?
ROBERT C. SPENCER,
Resident Principal.
MR. BEECHER OF THE REBEL ARMY OF SLAVES.—We take the following from the report of Henry Ward Beecher's last Sunday evening discourse:
"But we are asked, what if the slaves shall be armed against us in this terrible war? To arm the slaves is to destroy slavery, and that is to destroy the fatal element in Southern society—their aristocracy;—and with the destruction of this element we destroy the cause of the rebellion. Let us pray that they may arm their slaves. But it can scarcely be. The very proposition is a death symptom. It is present weakness. Many a desperate sickness might be cured, if the patient had constitution enough to bear up under it, and withstand the medicine he takes; and there is not enough stamina in the South to withstand four hundred thousand black soldiers in their midst."

GRANT'S PREPARATION.—The Times correspondent with the Army of the Potomac, writes: "You will see by the telegraph, that a movement of concentration is about to be inaugurated, and the highly organized forces are to be concentrated at a point where the wind blows, and coming events cast their shadows before—rather old but very true. My necessarily brief and feeble idea of the coming winter campaign, in a formal letter, will, I am assured, be speedily confirmed. The ordnance material of this army is in splendid order, the best firearms and the most approved specimens of ammunition are now in the hands of our men. The wharves at City Point resemble the interior of some leading arsenal, instead of the plain supply station of an army. The men are now ready for the fight, and their death-dealing tubes are new recruits in the carriage and din of battle. When our victorious army enter the city of Petersburg they will not shame the generous and liberal people of the North, but with glancing blades and shining steel shame the sun. You may smile at my anticipating the entry into the 'Cockade City,' but I expect to be soon reveling in my description of the closing scenes of this gigantic and memorable siege. I speak by the card."

SINISTER PRESS.—The New York Shipping List is one of the papers which have secured for some reason today all through the autumn that there was any appreciable failure in the Wheat crop of the country, and to repeatedly charge false motives to those journals which have made statements opposed to its own. In its issue of November 9th, it publishes the last report of the Department of Agriculture, which shows conclusively how erroneous have been the positions of the Shipping List, and yet the paper has the audacity to say that the Wheat crop deficiency is "less than two per cent. under that of last year." Here are the figures: Crop 1862 was 181,128,080 bus.; crop 1863 was 179,404,036 bus.; crop 1864 is 160,695,823 bus.; deficiency of 1864 compared with 1863 nearly ten per cent., compared with 1862 over ten per cent. We hope the morals of the Shipping List are not as bad as its arithmetic, when it is striving to bring about certain results. Until our New York contemporary amends its methods of calculation, its charges of "sinister press" against those who dispute its deductions, will have very little force.—Wells' Commercial Express.

HOW SHERIDAN ENTERED WEST POINT.—Lieutenant Commanding James Parker, Jr., of the United States gunboat Maumee, received, when a lad, the appointment of a cadet at West Point, from the member of Congress from his district in Ohio. Unfortunately, Parker, was too young to enter the academy, and his father, desirous that some one in his town should have the benefit of the appointment, cast about for a boy worthy of it. In a dry goods store was a lad, the son of Irish parents, who, by his salary as clerk, supported a widowed mother and sister. The place was offered to him, but was at first refused, as he disliked to give up the clerkship. Upon being urged further, the boy consented, and entered the military academy. To-day he is in the Valley of the Shenandoah, and his name is Philip Sheridan.—New Bedford Mercury.

THE JEW REPARATE BELMONT.—The Jewish Messenger states that "Mr. Belmont is simply the New York correspondent of the house Rothschild; that though a Jew by birth, he married out of the faith many years ago, is not connected with a Jewish congregation, and is universally repudiated as a Jew; that the Rothschilds have never assisted the rebel treasury to the extent of a dollar; that their sympathies and active co-operation have been with the government based on liberty as its main principle, as stated by Baron Rothschild, of Frankfurt, to the United States Consul General, Mr. Murphy; that the only banker of any note who upholds the Confederate cause in Europe is Mr. Erlanger, of Paris, who is not a Jew, but was converted to Christianity; and married Mr. Siddell's daughter."

THE COST OF GUERRILLAS.—The rebel committee estimates the value of the property in the Shenandoah Valley destroyed by Sheridan, to drive out guerrillas and render the region untenable by the rebels at $25,000,000, and they make the following enumeration: Thirty dwellings-houses, four hundred and thirty barns, thirty-one mills, three factories, and one furnace burned; a hundred miles of fencing, a hundred thousand bushels of corn, six thousands tons of hay destroyed; one thousand and seven hundred cattle, the same number of horses, and four thousand hogs carried off.

COL. BARSTOW.—Col. Barstow, of the 3d Cavalry—an officer who has scarcely seen his regiment since the beginning of the war, and has never been in a battle—attended the Chicago Convention, went for "Little Mac," and announced that his regiment would give a large majority for the Chicago ticket. The men comprising it were mostly Democrats when they entered the service. As far as heard from they vote more than two to one for Father Abraham.

MASSACHUSETTS.—The Union majority in the Old Bay State comes fully up to the 40,000—highest ever given for any party. The total vote was: Lincoln 134,000, McClellan 44,000. In three towns, Dan, Pombroke and Marshfield—the latter the home of Daniel Webster—Lincoln had 550 votes, and McClellan none.

DYSPEPSIA, NERVOUSNESS, AND DEBILITY, DR. STRICKLAND'S TONIC.—We can recommend those suffering with Loss of Appetite, Indigestion, or Dyspepsia, Nervousness and Nervous Debility, to use Strickland's Tonic. It is a vegetable preparation, free from alcoholic liquors; it strengthens the whole nervous system; it creates a good appetite, and is warranted to cure Dyspepsia and Nervous Debility. For sale by Druggists generally at $1 per bottle. Prepared by Dr. A. Strickland, 6 East Fourth street, Cincinnati, O. J. F. Colwell Wholesale agent for Wisconsin. aug23daw17.

OUR ENTIRE STOCK
Of French Merinos, Alpaccas, Mohairs and all of our Plain Dress Goods are of last season's purchases. Consequently we are selling them at least 50 per cent. less than the present jobbers' prices. In these goods we have a very extensive stock, and defy all competition. Our entire stock of Dress Goods will be sold for the next two weeks at last year's prices.
LADIES CLOTHES and CLOAKING.
We have a very large stock of these Goods, that we are selling at least 25 per cent. below the present jobbing prices.
BALMORAL SKIRTS!
200 doz. Skirts now on sale. Having contracted early in the season with the manufacturer for skirts before the great rise, we are enabled to sell Balmorals at fifty cents on the dollar on what they are worth now.
WOOLEN GOODS
25 per cent. below this or any other market. We would invite the particular attention of persons wishing to buy cloths, or garments made to order, to examine our stock of Cloths, as it is by far the most extensive stock in this city, and second to none in the State. Our entire stock of Moscow, Equenex, and Castor Beaver, Silk, Alpaca, Double and Twist Cheviots, and our entire stock of Plain Woollens are of last season's purchases, consequently it is perfectly new for parties buying their goods this season to try to compete with us in this line.
Our stock of Sherry Grey Cloth, and medium Woollens is very large, which we are selling 50 per cent. below the present manufacturers' prices.
VERY IMPORTANT.
I have in stock a cheap and very effective Window Blind Cloth, by which the Wind is securely fastened so that it cannot be opened from the outside.
